

ABOUT US

Paul and Jenny Geelen are Ocularists based in Perth, Western Australia. In their work with Artificial Eye Services they hand craft artificial eyes for patients of the Lions Eye Institute and all the major teaching hospitals in Western Australia.

Paul has twenty years experience in all aspects of making and fitting prosthetic eyes. In addition he conducts regular clinics in Dubai and the Philippines.

Jenny conducts regular clinics in Darwin and East Timor.

Paul and Jenny are founding members of the Ocularist Association of Australia and are proud sponsors of the support group ArtEyes.

Conformer shells have traditionally been produced by plastics manufacturers, not ocularists. All too often the edges of the shells have an abrasive edge that makes them very uncomfortable in the eye socket and hinder the healing process.

This set of conformers was created to provide a surgical standard product for ophthalmologists.

WHAT IS A CONFORMER SHELL?

After eye removal surgery (Evisceration/Enucleation), a clear plastic shell (conformer shell) is fitted into the eye socket to hold the shape and allow the eyelids to blink over the shell without rubbing on the suture line.

The conformer shell will be worn for six to eight weeks after surgery. This allows for the swelling in the eye socket to subside prior to fitting an artificial eye.
